Greetings

Dear Colleagues, we wish you continued prosperity in the future. We would also like to express our sincere gratitude for your continued understanding and cooperation.

We are pleased to announce that the 31st Annual Meeting of the Japanese Society for Gene and Cell Therapy (JSGCT2025) will be held at Hotel Gajoen Tokyo in Meguro-ku, Tokyo for three days* from July 23 (Wed) to July 25 (Fri), 2025. The theme of this conference is "International Contribution and the Dawn of a New Era."

*The educational program will be held on Tuesday, March 22 (Location: The Institute of Medical Science, The University of Tokyo).

Gene therapy has attracted considerable attention owing to its distinct mechanism of action and clinical efficacy based on the molecular pathology. Gene therapy products for cancer and hereditary diseases are being rapidly commercialized, with marketing approvals increasing in number in Japan and especially in Europe and the USA, and various clinical trials are being conducted. In the field of cell therapy, progress is being made in the development of next-generation mesenchymal cells using high-performance designer cells and fetal appendages, and various modalities are expected to be developed depending on the pathological condition.

However, with gains in experience, various problems have come to light, such as adverse events associated with large-scale systemic administration, stagnation in product development in Japan, and a shortage of research personnel. Therefore, the need to leverage real-world information and develop globally applicable technologies that reflect this information is ongoing.

For this reason, it is necessary to promote the overseas expansion of domestic technologies while actively participating in tripartite information exchanges among Japan, USA, and Europe as well as fostering international cooperation among regulatory authorities. In recent years, the number of corporate participants has increased, making conferences an important forum for exchanges among industry, government, and academia. As part of our efforts to proactively disseminate information about Japan's excellent seeds and their future potential for society, we look forward to being able to welcome representatives from the American Society for Gene and Cell Therapy and regulatory authorities to this academic conference.

Therefore, we would like to invite you to apply for co-sponsorship, exhibition, advertisement, and other opportunities at this meeting and would appreciate your understanding and cooperation regarding the various application stipulations.

Finally, I wish for your continued success.

Sincerely yours,

July 2024

The 31st Annual Meeting of the Japan Society of Gene and Cell Therapy
Chairperson: Takashi Okada
(Professor, The Institute of Medical Science, The University of Tokyo)

12. Precautions and other matters:

A) Exhibitors:

Research equipment, medical equipment, medical supplies, pharmaceuticals, testing equipment, reagents, books, and support and contract services

B) Exhibition booth:

Booth allocation will be handled by the Society secretariat.

Details regarding booth allocation, delivery, decoration, management, and so forth will be provided approximately one month before the event.

C) Exhibits:

Exhibits must be within the scope described in the Exhibits section and approved by the Society secretariat.

Please contact the secretariat regarding the exhibition of products that are not approved under the Pharmaceutical Affairs Law.

D) Prohibition of sales in exhibitions:

The handover of goods in exchange for cash at the exhibits during the event is prohibited.

However, we may permit this on a limited basis for approved items.

E) Venue management:

We will do our best to protect and manage the venue and exhibits, but we will not be responsible for accidents caused by natural disasters or other unavoidable circumstances, such as theft, loss, or human-caused disasters within the booth. We request that each company take appropriate measures, such as purchasing insurance.

F) Change of venue and date:

The method, venue, exhibition period, and opening hours may be subject to change due to unavoidable circumstances. Applications cannot be cancelled because of such changes. No compensation will be provided for any damage caused by such changes.

※ To prevent the spread of infectious diseases such as Covid-19, we would appreciate your understanding that the format of the exhibition may be changed to a completely web-based event, depending on the circumstances.

G) Resale of the exhibition space:

The exhibition space may not be resold or transferred either completely or in part.

H) Cancellation of the exhibit:

As a rule, exhibitors cannot cancel their applications for participation for their own reasons.

Additionally, we cannot refund exhibition fees that have already been paid.

※We will donate the program to companies that sponsor the event.

※The receipt will be the transfer certificate issued by the bank.

※Please note that your company will be responsible for the bank transfer fee.

※We are planning to guide visitors to the corporate exhibition space by organizing a stamp rally and other activities in conjunction with the poster presentation area. We would appreciate it if you could prepare novelties and other items for this purpose.
